What Is an Author?

All submissions to AANA Journal must follow the guidelines on authorship provided by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE) and the American Medical Association.

To be listed as a bylined author on a manuscript submission to AANA Journal:

All bylined authors should have participated sufficiently in the work to take public responsibility for the content. Substantial contributions must have been made in the following three areas according to the American Medical Association…

---conception and design, or acquisition of data, or analysis and interpretation of data
---drafting the manuscript or revising it critically for important intellectual content
---approval of the version of the manuscript to be published.

Authors must also abide by the definition of authorship by the ICMJE…. “Participation solely in the acquisition of funding, or the collection of data, or general supervision of the research group is not sufficient for authorship.”

Those who don’t satisfy the above three criteria may be thanked in an Acknowledgements section at the end of the manuscript but should not be listed as a bylined author.
